

JOHN LYON'S CHARITY

Sonal Shenai

Sonal is an entrepreneurial and collaborative leader committed to creating social impact. As Employment Lead at Impetus, she coaches charity leaders and supports charities aiming to improve employment outcomes for disadvantaged young people. She was previously Head of Consulting at SafeLives, the national domestic abuse charity, where she helped to transform the support for victims and families at a local level. In former roles, she created transformational growth in revenues as the first Chief Executive of The Funding Network charity and developed ground-breaking new ventures in previous private sector roles within large, international companies including HarperCollins and Random House. Sonal has excellent analytical and financial skills, with a broad commercial perspective and an MBA from INSEAD. Her profound commitment to creating social change is evidenced by decades of volunteering experience, from board level to grass roots roles in charities and schools.